DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-7, drawn to a method for analytical imaging of target entities, classified in class 436, subclass 526.
- II. Claims 11-20, drawn to a method for scanning magnetically and detectably labeled micronsized objects, classified in class 436, subclass 172.
- III. Claims 8-10 and 21-25, drawn to an apparatus for analytical analysis and automatic scanning of labeled micronsized objects, classified in class 204, subclass 193.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are distinct inventions and thus are subject to restriction. The inventions are distinct processes in that the methods are not dependent on each other, not to be used together and have different functions, modes of operation, and effects. In the instant case the method of invention I requires an active step of magnetically labeling target entities with magnetic particles that are specific for said target entities, the method of invention II does not require a step of labeling target entities with magnetic means. Rather the method of invention II requires target entities to be labeled with optically detectable labels, and further requires a step of illuminating the objects at specific wavelengths to excite the detectable labels, such is not required in the method of invention I.

Inventions I and II are related to invention III as processes and an apparatus for their practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus of invention III appears to be capable of carrying out both methods of inventions I and II, as the apparatus has the generic features required to perform the vital steps of each method, and thus is not specific to either method individually.

Therefore, a search and examination of all inventions in one patent application would result in an undue burden. These inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, different classifications, and a search for one group does not require a search for another group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provisions of MPEP § 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after final rejection are governed by 37 CFR 1.116; amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until an elected product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in the light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 34 U.S.C § 103(b)," 1184 O.G. 86 (March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder.

Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
